

Karyl Evans

Director / Producer / Writer / Editor

Karyl Evans is a six-time Emmy Award winning director/producer/editor/writer of documentary films. In 2016 Ms. Evans won the National Academy of Television Arts and Science's Outstanding Director Emmy Award for her work on the one hour documentary, Letter from Italy, 1944: A New American Oratorio narrated by Meryl Streep.

Ms. Evans, owner of Karyl Evans Productions in North Haven, CT, has produced over 100 historical documentaries over the past 30 years including The Life and Gardens of Beatrix Farrand, The New Haven Green: Heart of a City, narrated by Paul Giamatti, Grove Street Cemetery: City of the Dead, City of the Living, as well as a series of documentaries for public television including the History of African-Americans in Connecticut and the History of Connecticut Cities.

Ms. Evans has worked as a full-time Professor at Southern Connecticut State University and she is a Fellow at Yale University.

For more information about Karyl Evans visit her website at: KarylEvansProductions.Com